

Catching Bait Fish & Setting Limb Lines on Oconee River

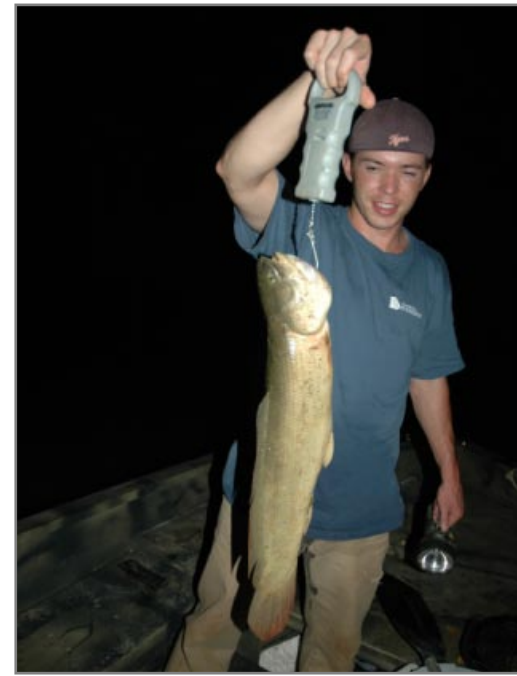

Although we were looking for hand-sized bream to hook on our limb lines, when you throw out the net, you never know what might come up. Here you can see that Rob caught a 2.5 lb bass and an old table stand.

Catching Bait Fish & Setting Limb Lines on Oconee River

Despite using 18 perfect-sized bream for our bait, our results were not impressive. One medium sized gar, one mudfish (aka bowfin), and two channel cats. We should have known the fishing would be mediocre, because as we were heading out that evening, the river was rising rapidly. You could see foam flecks floating all in the current, indicating the fast-rising water.

Catching Bait Fish & Setting Limb Lines on Oconee

View of the Oconee River South of Dublin